Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 06 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain and snow tonight. Cold, drier on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain and snow will gradually push south through the country. Ice will be a hazard on untreated surfaces with lying snow for some. Winds freshening around northern coasts.

Thursday:
Any rain and snow across southern Scotland will fizzle out by early afternoon. Otherwise becoming brighter, snow showers in the north but dry elsewhere. Staying cold.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Scattered snow showers affecting the north on Friday, otherwise bright and cold. Patchy light rain pushing in from the west on Saturday. Less cold on Sunday, wet in the northwest.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.